

Matarromera Gran Reserva 2014

Because this red wine is not released on the market until 6 years after its Harvest. For this reason alone, the experience is already different. But, despite the passage of time, Matarromera Gran Reserva is a wine that has been modernised thanks to the elegance that comes from its ageing in predominantly French barrels of the highest quality and the roundness that comes from the bottle.

- Harvest by hand in 12 kg crates and triple selection: in the vineyard, after each cluster and, finally, berry by berry.
- Fermentation with indigenous yeasts from their own plots.
- We love its bright cherry-coloured rim.
- On the nose, a multitude of fruity sensations in perfect harmony with hints of soft caramel, beeswax?
- Complex in flavours among which fresh red blackberries and fine dark chocolate stand out.
- It is one of those wines with a singular personality from the moment it is born, which it maintains and forges over the years.

VINEYARD

San Román is one of Matarromera's most emblematic vineyards and surrounds the winery in the municipality of Valbuena de Duero, on a steep limestone slope overlooking the Duero River. Finca de las Celadillas is located in Olivares de Duero, also very close to the winery. Both plots have traditional Tempranillo grape varieties that give rise to Matarromera Gran Reserva.

Matarromera Gran Reserva

WINEMAKER: Félix González
TECHNICAL DIRECTOR: Alberto Guadarrama

Bodega Matarromera

In Valbuena de Duero, the birthplace of Tempranillo in the Ribera del Duero, lies the roots of Bodega Matarromera. Founded in 1988 on the slopes of a hill facing south, from which the impassive Duero River can be seen. This cosy winery is the perfect setting for the production of wines for ageing, as the conditions provided by its half-buried cellars are perfect for the production of wines in which the balance between oak and Tempranillo is the protagonist. The first vintage of Bodega Matarromera won the Gran Gold Medal at the International Wine Competition, which was an incredible starting point for a history full of successes.
