

Matarromera Reserva

D.O. RIBERA DEL DUERO
97 Points Gourmets Guide
Vines over 25 years old

If there is one thing that characterises Bodega Matarromera, it is its ability to make wines for ageing in Ribera del Duero. The key is in the raw material, in the vineyard. For this Reserva we have chosen:

1. Vines over 25 years old and with measured vegetation, which give rise to smaller clusters and grape berries but with a higher concentration of colour and polyphenols.
2. Limestone Soil Textures located at an altitude of over 750 metres above sea level. Limestone is a type of calcareous rock that allows good water drainage and gives full-bodied wines, suitable for ageing.

- Matarromera Reserva has an intense colour with incredible bluish tones. Aromas of ripe black fruit, with clear mineral touches typical of limestone Soil Textures. In addition, light hints of cocoa, spices and balsamic notes.
- In its first years we find in the mouth sensations of dark chocolate that will evolve into new leather and pipe. Exclusive and unique wine, representative of a saga of iconic wines.

VINEYARD

Las Celadillas is located very close to Bodega Matarromera, in the municipality of Olivares de Duero (Valladolid) and is planted with traditional Tempranillo clones from the area. Las Solanas is Matarromera's mythical estate, some areas of which are used for the production of Matarromera Reserva.

Matarromera Reserva

WINEMAKER: Félix González
TECHNICAL DIRECTOR: Alberto Guadarrama

Bodega Matarromera

In Valbuena de Duero, the birthplace of Tempranillo in the Ribera del Duero, lies the roots of Bodega Matarromera. Founded in 1988 on the slopes of a hill facing south, from which the impassive Duero River can be seen. This cosy winery is the perfect setting for the production of wines for ageing, as the conditions provided by its half-buried cellars are perfect for the production of wines in which the balance between oak and Tempranillo is the protagonist. The first vintage of Bodega Matarromera won the Gran Gold Medal at the International Wine Competition, which was an incredible starting point for a history full of successes.
